OTHER WORK:

Note 1: There are upgrades to the Rectory (1838) planned for 2006, including painting, work in the kitchen, bathroom, and replacement of windows.

Note 2: This building (1800) was partially destroyed by fire in 1994 and a massive restoration project was completed in 1999. Each year one third of the Round Church is painted. Maintenance of this building comes primarily from a Preservation Endowment Fund established after the restoration of the building.

Note 3: Major work is needed on this building (1887 and 1912). The congregation, after considerable study and consultation, decided in 2004 that it wanted to build a new building consistent with the historical architecture of the site. However, it is unlikely that this can be managed financially, and the Hall may be in better condition than originally anticipated, so this project will need to be carefully revisited by the parish in the near future.

Note 4: This small but important building (circa 1753) was partially restored 1996-1998 and is primarily maintained by a small group of individuals with an interest in the building and its graveyard. It is used regularly for smaller services during the summer.

Note 5: These amounts include snow removal, architectural consultation and ever-increasing insurance costs.

PARISH MONTHLY SERVICE SCHEDULE

All services of public worship are conducted according to the Book of Common Prayer (Canada, 1962), as they are printed, without substitutions, alterations, additions, or rearrangement. The Daily Office and Eucharistic Lectionaries of the Prayer Book are regarded as belonging essentially to the Prayer Book liturgies. All offices are generally conducted by the laity.

Every Sunday:	8:00 AM	Holy Communion (said)
	10:00 AM	Morning Prayer (said)
	10:30 AM	Holy Communion (choral)
	5:30 PM	Evening Prayer (sung)
	9:00 PM	Compline (choral)
Daily:	7:30 AM	Morning Prayer (said) (Fridays, followed by the Litany)
	12:00 Noon	Prayers at Mid-day (said)
	5:30 PM	Evening Prayer (said)
Wednesday:	10:00 AM	Holy Communion (said) (celebrant: honorary assistant)
Friday:	12:15 PM	Holy Communion (said) (signed for the deaf)

In addition, Feast Days of the Church Year are observed on the day designated in the calendar of the Book of Common Prayer by a celebration of Holy Communion, choral in the case of major festivals such as Epiphany, Ascension, All Saints, etc. Choral Holy Communions on Sundays and on major Holy Days are generally celebrated with priest, deacon and sub-deacon. Incense is used on major festivals.

The Litany in Procession is sung on the first Sunday of each season of the church year.

On the First Sunday of Advent there is a service of Lessons and Carols. There is a service of Christmas Lessons and Carols during the week following Christmas Day.

Holy Week is observed with an ecumenical street procession with donkey on Palm Sunday, Choral Communion on Monday and Tuesday, Choral Tenebrae on Wednesday, Choral Communion of the Institution of the Lord's Supper on Maundy Thursday, followed by the Stripping of the Altar and an all-night vigil, a Three Hour Service on Good Friday, and the Easter Vigil and First Eucharist of Easter on Saturday night and Choral Eucharist on Easter Sunday Morning.

A. Please explain the Parish Baptismal customs:

In accordance with Diocesan Guidelines, Baptism occurs normally in the context of regularly scheduled services of public worship. In general, and always in the case of Baptisms conducted in the context of regularly scheduled services of public worship, Baptisms are conducted in strict accordance with the liturgies of baptism as printed on pages 522 through 540 in the Book of Common Prayer. A baptism preparation team meets with the family of the infant or adult to be baptised, and very often with the Godparents or witnesses as well. At least one member of this baptism preparation team will stand with the family at the font and assist the family in every way possible. The baptismal preparation team and indeed the whole of the congregation endeavour to encourage the newly baptised and their families to become active members of the parish family.

B. Please explain the Parish Matrimonial customs:

We follow Diocesan Guidelines. A fee structure is clearly laid out. Opportunities for marriage preparation are made known, but not insisted upon. Couples planning to be married at Saint George's are encouraged to attend worship, participate in the liturgy and reflect upon sermons. While the Book of Common Prayer is the norm and embodies the parish's doctrinal understanding of Holy Matrimony, the Rector's discretion and pastoral sensitivity allow for additions or alternatives to the Prayer Book liturgy. The newly married are encouraged to become active members of the parish family.

C. Please explain the Parish Funeral customs:

We follow Diocesan Guidelines. The Book of Common Prayer is the norm. The liturgical colour is purple. The Rector's discretion and pastoral sensitivity in relation to a family's wishes allow for additions or alterations to the liturgy of the Book of Common Prayer. The Parish strives to supply choral leadership for all funerals. The Rector provides pastoral care to the grieving.

(YouthNet has its own budget separate from the parish and operates as a youth mentoring organization in the inner city of Halifax, with both paid employees and many volunteers from inside and outside of the parish. It runs or oversees such programmes as: after school computer use for homework and games and also active games, breakfast and lunch programmes, Latin and Greek Club, Beavers/Cubs/Scouts, and in the summer, wilderness camping, Art Club, reading and gardening.)

OTHER PAROCHIAL COMMITMENTS:

Spiritual Development, Sundays, 12.30-1.30pm, Guild Room, Parish Hall. Meets three times/year in preparation for Advent and Christmas, Lent and Easter, and in the spring to plan for fall programmes. Sub-committees for Christian Education and Music meet approximately 5 times each year to plan events, in consultation with the Rector. The Rector’s presence may not always be required at meetings of sub-committees.

Pastoral Ministry, Sundays, 12.30-1.30pm, Guild Room, Parish Hall. Functions through various sub-committees throughout the year, meets as a group to prepare for Christmas outreach or other special events. The Rector’s presence may not always be required at meetings of sub-committees.

NOTE: While the results of this exercise were compiled faithfully and to the best of our ability, it is important to note that many of the returned surveys were "spoiled"; many parishioners felt that Appendix A was confusing and difficult to fill in. Many felt that the strict ranking of priorities within categories was unhelpful and that some important priorities were not included for consideration. However, the parish's priorities were clear, demonstrating a marked preference for Spiritual Development and Pastoral Care, both ranking very high.

CENSUS:

Does the Parish have up-to-date family census information? No.

In what year was the family census last updated? 1993

Does the Parish have an up-to-date Mailing List? Yes, including email

In what year was it updated? Constantly

Please describe the worshipping community of the Parish:

NOTE: Although a parish demographic profile is not currently available, the congregation consists of a healthy mix of all ages, with none predominating. The figures above are "best guesses" made by looking over the Parish List. It is noteworthy that while the church property is located in the inner city, the congregation comes from throughout Halifax Regional Municipality, not only from the surrounding neighbourhood.

PLEASE DESCRIBE THE MAJOR CHALLENGES FACING THE PARISH AT THE PRESENT TIME:

Spiritual Development and Pastoral Ministry

As a parish, we are committed to maintaining a faithful and thoughtful adherence to the Book of Common Prayer in all its liturgical richness and supported by an excellent musical tradition. We are challenged to provide excellent Christian education, for both adults and children. Saint George's is home to parishioners of considerable diversity, in both practical and theoretical matters, all of whom are brought together in the worship which is at the centre of our parish life. This diversity results in the need for a variety of programmes and activities flowing out of this worship, both within the parish and in our neighbourhood. Much prayer and effort must be put into developing programmes that will encourage and nurture people in their Christian lives and also foster a spirit of understanding and appreciation of one another.

We are continually challenged (and blessed) by the community in which Saint George's is located, an inner-city neighbourhood with unique strengths but facing numerous challenges. We must strive to be welcoming to this community, while at the same time being sensitive to its culture and social and spiritual life. We must continue our efforts to represent Saint George's and its Christian witness in the community, through such outreach programmes as YouthNet, Beavers/Cubs/Scouts, the Deaf Ministry and Soup Kitchen. Currently there is a particular opportunity to embrace children, young people and young families within the parish, and involve them more meaningfully in parish life.

We will also be seeking a new Music Director whose contract will begin in September, 2006. Our budget does not allow for the Music Director's salary to reflect fully the centrality of music in the life of the parish. This means that it is likely that we will be looking for someone early in his or her career, and this will entail potentially intensive instruction by the Rector of the new person in the spiritual logic of traditional Anglican worship in order that the music support our worship.

Property

One of the challenges for the parish is the number and age of the parish buildings (See Parish Property Annual Expenditures). We have two very significant historic churches (the Round Church and the Little Dutch Church) entrusted to our care. We also have a Rectory that is 165 years old, and a Hall, also very old, both of which require much-needed upgrades in the very near future. The maintenance of these buildings is an expensive responsibility, and yet they are key sites that reflect the historic heritage of the parish that we are expected to maintain. Raising funds for the upgrades will be difficult, and any work done will need to reflect the historic nature of the parish.

Administration and Stewardship

We have been challenged to maintain a stable committee structure in general, and, in particular, a committee to address the stewardship needs of the parish. In 2006, we will be establishing a permanent Stewardship Committee. This committee will continue to develop ways of encouraging and retaining new congregational members, and the enhancement of levels of giving, participation in worship, outreach programmes and volunteer services and lay leadership.

PLEASE DESCRIBE HOW THIS INFORMATION IS AFFECTING YOUR EXPECTATIONS OF A NEW RECTOR:

The Parish would expect a priest capable of and desiring to lead the Parish in responding to the many and multi-sided challenges outlined in the previous question. But the core of any such expectation is that the priest lead the Parish in aspirational worship and prayer using the Book of Common Prayer vigorously and exclusively. It is this above all that holds the Parish in all its diversity together, the centre around which all its activity operates, and it is through this that there is to be found the surest route to responding to the multiple challenges that the Parish faces.

St. George's, like many Anglican parishes, expects considerable leadership of its priest and yet that this leadership be exercised in the context of significant lay volunteer work informed by a clear sense of the traditions, practices and purposes of the Parish. We would hope for a priest who could both lead and at the same time encourage and strengthen the role of laity in the self-governance and spiritual development of the Parish. To do this effectively requires sensitivity and good judgement. But it also requires trust: that the priest has trust in the parish and that the parish can trust its priest.

St. George's has, for a quarter of a century at least, defined itself in a threefold manner: that its foci are liturgy, music and outreach – all done in the context of the Book of Common Prayer and its lectionary. Our expectation would be that our priest would respect and build upon these established traditions, but more: help us see and deepen our understanding of the inter-relation of them. How is it that an elevated form of worship is drawn into a connection to love and ministry in the inner-city? The Parish can readily fall into either assuming a connection or losing sight of the connection all together. Our hope is that our rector would help the Parish reflect thoughtfully and honestly on its liturgy, music, and outreach, and what it means to be living through them in the contemporary world. So study, prayer and reflection upon the theological tradition must be an integral part of what informs the preaching of the Word, together with a capacity to connect with the living demands of St. George's and its context.

St. George's has a strong sense of itself. We are not looking for a priest who will make us over into something we are not. And yet, we know ourselves to be facing many challenges. No doubt many of these challenges arise from our upholding of the three foci, the very traditions and practices by which we have come to define ourselves; yet rather than evade or diminish these challenges by putting aside or watering down some or all of these traditions and practices, we would hope to be led to confront these challenges precisely as they present themselves to us in and through our traditions and practices. Our hope then is in a priest who can lead us to be more fully the parish we have been called to be.

THE CONSTRUCTION AND USE OF AN INTERVIEW INSTRUMENT

[The following material is provided for the assistance of the Parochial Committee in the development of an Interview Instrument. The Archdeacon will consult with the Committee to review the finished material.]

Possible Questions for Parochial Committee Interviews:

1. Tell us something about yourself. (Résumé could be used as a jumping off point)
2. In our profile our parish is particularly interested in a priest who will . . .

The profile says we have a need for someone who will . . .

Can you tell us about your experience in this area; e.g. pastoral visiting, outreach, worship, Christian education?

How do you go about it? Have you faced any difficulties, etc.?
3. What communication skills do you think are most important in ministry? How have you used them in your present parish?
4. How would you describe your role in your present parish? Would you want to do some things differently, and why?
5. How do you see program planning in the Church today? How do you do program planning in your present parish?
6. What are the questions raised for you as you read our parish profile?
7. What special gifts do you bring to parish ministry?
8. What do you consider some of your strong points in ministry? Your weaknesses?
9. What has been your role in the community in your present Parish, in the Region, Diocese, National Church?
10. What have you done in continuing education programs in the last couple of years? What particular interests do you now want to explore? Why?
11. What questions do you have for us?

Parochial Committee Interview Suggestions:

1. Each meeting is to have an agenda.
2. A written record of the interview will need to be kept as this record, together with the Parish Profile, will form the basis of the Covenant in Ministry.
3. Ask the same questions.
4. Different members of the committee to ask different questions.
5. Different people to listen for different things; e.g. Christian education, program, administration, etc.
6. Give candidates equal interview time (avoid highjacking by candidate).

- 7. Scoring questions (e.g. numerical or high, medium, low) brings focus, accountability to the interview process.
- 8. Could be completed during the interview -- general observations:

	Excellent	Good	Fair	Poor
Voice
Speech and use of language
Ability to express ideas
Sense of humour
Self-confidence
Grooming and appearance

Questions the Committee to Ask Itself:

What gifts would this individual bring to the parish?

General impressions.

The purpose of this form is twofold.

First, it is designed to help Parochial Committees report on the outcome of their deliberations regarding prospective candidates.

Second, it will help the bishop understand the basis of the decisions of Parochial Committees regarding candidates interviewed. It will also help the bishop explain to unsuccessful candidates the reasons for their lack of success, and thus help the bishop give guidance to candidates regarding future interview opportunities.

Please fill out one form for each candidate interviewed, and send them by mail (or deliver them by hand) to the bishop in an envelope marked Confidential. Destroy all rough or other extra copies of completed forms.

PART 4A

A COVENANT IN MINISTRY PROCESS

[The Parish Covenant with the New Incumbent will be patterned in the following manner, and completed prior to the appointment, under the oversight of the Archdeacon.]

Introduction:

The development of a covenant between the parish and a prospective incumbent at the time of an appointment is an expectation of the diocesan bishop. The term covenant is one with a rich biblical and liturgical history. We speak of the covenant between God and the people of God, the baptismal covenant, the covenant of marriage, and a covenant in ministry.

A covenant in ministry is intended to facilitate the transition from parochial committee interviews to a shared ministry between the parish and the new incumbent.

The covenant in ministry should:

- (1) provide a reference point in the development of this new pastoral relationship;
- (2) help avoid potential misunderstandings; and
- (3) establish a reference point for discussion of the ministry of both covenanting parties.

The covenant shall be understood with the context of the evolving Anglican tradition of pastoral care, the ordination rites, canon law, as well as, episcopal/diocesan guidelines, directives, expectations, and policies which may be in effect from time to time.

Making The Covenant:

Agreement as to the terms of the covenant, based on the Parish Profile and the Written Record of the Parochial Committee Interview, will be required before the appointment of a new incumbent can be finalized and announced. Completion of the covenant is the responsibility of the prospective incumbent and the parish wardens. The actual writer for the covenant document may be the prospective incumbent, or one of the wardens, or a joint effort between the two as circumstances permit. The final draft of the covenant shall be presented to the parish council for purposes of information and affirmation prior to the induction.

The foundations for the covenant shall be:

1. (a) The completed parish profile; and
(b) The completed parish self-evaluation (this item has yet to be developed)
2. The written record of the interview between the parochial committee and the prospective incumbent.

The five categories of Appendix A in the completed parish profile shall provide a framework for outlining the terms of the covenant between priest and people. It will be helpful to indicate under each category the following:

1. Responsibilities shared by the incumbent and laity as the whole people of God in that place;
2. Responsibilities assumed by the incumbent;
3. Responsibilities assumed by laypersons as part of the ministry of the laity.

The priorities of the parish should be used creatively and suggestively in the covenant document. The covenant should be concise (a page or two maximum). The covenant should complement the parish profile. The covenant should not contain items of an “employment” or contractual nature. Those items should be worked through outside the covenant framework.

The Archdeacon:

The Archdeacon will initiate, and provide education and elucidation about, the covenanting process. The Archdeacon will read the covenant for sense of clarity making suggestions which enhance an understanding of the goals and aspirations of the covenanting parties. The Archdeacon will not contribute to the content or substance of the covenant. Such is the prerogative and responsibility of the covenanting parties. The covenant when completed should be read and approved by the Bishop who will want to make certain that the covenant fits into the context of both the local and universal church (see Introduction above).

Signing The Covenant:

The covenant will be signed by the incumbent and the parish wardens acting on behalf of the parish at the induction service. The signing will take place during the “Covenant in Ministry” portion of the liturgy. Prior to being signed the covenant will be read as a public parish document. The covenant may be written so that parties to the covenant may read their respective parts.

Review:

The covenant may be reviewed informally by the covenanting parties six months following the induction. The covenant shall be reviewed formally by the covenanting parties (with the Archdeacon acting as a resource person) twelve months after the induction. The covenant shall thereafter be formally reviewed at least every twenty-four months. The purpose of each formal review is to note successes and challenges and make recommendations for changes to the covenant, parish profile, position descriptions and other related documents. Within the pastoral context of the review process all participants should emphasize methods of celebrating the successes and resolving the challenges (adapted from draft guidelines on Mutual Ministry Review). The covenanting parties may call upon the services of the Archdeacon at anytime.

Special Circumstances:

Some parishes may be served by ordained ministers other than the incumbent (curate, stipendiary or non-stipendiary assistants or associates, or retired clergy acting in a paid or voluntary capacity). Where a covenant relationship exists between the incumbent and a parish a covenant shall also exist between the parish and other ordained ministers. Position descriptions shall be in place for those who exercise responsibility within the church community. These are individuals who:

- a) Have an identifiable role in the church community under review;
- b) May be clergy, lay, male, female, Christian, non-Christian, salaried, full or part time, paid, contract, stipend, fee, honorarium, or voluntary;
- c) May minister (i) within the church community, (ii) beyond the church community in the society at large by or on behalf of the church community (adapted from draft guidelines for Mutual Ministry Review as discussed). Such position descriptions shall be attached to the parish profile.
